About

Madeline Rhodes is a pop singer-songwriter from the Upper West Side of NYC. She started her career acting for film, television, and on Broadway. Once she was ready to share her own stories, she began releasing music under the stage name "MuMu", focusing on the female experience and using her music as a platform for her activism.

MuMu made her debut in 2018 with the powerful single "Free the Nip", a feminist anthem that addresses the censorship of the female body. The accompanying music video quickly went viral, amassing nearly 2 million views on YouTube, and the song became a show-closing staple at various Pride events and festivals where Madeline performed with renowned artists such as Pussy Riot and Todrick Hall. "Free the Nip" continues garnering attention recently being licensed for the Netflix animated series Big Mouth (S6:E2).

Since her debut, MuMu has been featured in The New York Times, Variety, IndieWire, and The Hollywood Reporter, and she received critical acclaim for her work in the groundbreaking musical film Best Summer Ever, in which she co-wrote all music and had a starring role alongside Maggie Gyllenhaal and Benjamin Bratt.

Plans for 2024 include the release of her debut LP under her given name, Madeline Rhodes. This signifies a shift towards a more vulnerable style of storytelling, allowing her audience to connect with her on a deeper level.
