

PARSON JAMES

ABOUT

Since the release of his breakout debut EP "The Temple" in 2016, multi-platinum Sony International/RCA recording artist Parson James has gone on to garner more than a billion streams worldwide. With hits such as "Stole the Show", a collaboration with Norwegian producer Kygo and his most recent single "Only You," which features Kupono Aweau (who toured with Madonna on her Rebel Hearts tour) and transfemme musician/actress/designer/model Neon. Parson continues to be a valued voice and LGBTQ advocate featured in various high profile publications and shows included Hello Mr., Out Magazine, V Magazine, The Today Show, ELLEN and many more.

Last Fall, the LGBTQ artist and activist Parson James debuted SugarCube, a uniquely immersive events program. Parson will bring with him a slew of talented friends and the series will include a constantly evolving array of performers and experiences that reflect the diversity of NYC.

With more and more queer performance spaces and parties moving to Brooklyn, Parson felt compelled to host a night in the city that would celebrate the LGBTQ community. Parson's vision was to recreate some of that Studio 54 magic. "I want to provide a safe, fun and frivolous environment to give a little sweetness back to our community". "This awareness ignited tracks like his 2023 single "Little Fires." Soft piano glows like embers in the rain as his soulful delivery echoes with an affirmation, "I see you burning, and I know that pain. I see you burning, baby don't you lose that flame." As strings punctuate an organic beat, his voice catches fire on the resounding refrain.

Fittingly, his mother's words introduce the emotionally charged and uplifting music video.

"My little sister is beyond gorgeous and cool," he says. "She doesn't care what she says. There is a spark in her that I admire a lot. At some point, people take that away from you, because they say you are weird, strange, and shouldn't say things. I kept envisioning her going to school and someone trying to take that away. So, I wrote a song that speaks to these people who feel like their light is too bright. Don't ever extinguish that. Don't lose that flame. It is what will make you push forward and progress in life. My little sister inspired me to tell this story.

The message is, 'You are f*cking amazing! Don't ever dim for another person'."
